

The Evolution of Functional Beverages On-Trend & Within Reach

Thirsty for Healthy Innovation

Modern consumers are prioritizing their health more than ever before, and as a result, the demand for nutritional solutions in convenient formats has grown exponentially. This elevated demand has led to rapid growth within the functional beverage marketplace, where consumers want refreshments to do more than just quench thirst.

The demand for better-for-you beverages goes beyond a one-size-fits-all health benefit; rather, consumers are seeking tailored solutions promoting specific health benefits conducive to their nutritional goals.

Currently, the most sought-after claims revolve around vitamins, protein, immune support, and weight management, while emerging trends include brain and digestive health.

The US functional beverage market is forecast to grow at a CAGR of 6% from 2022-2032.
